

Listlessness is the Danger Signal

If your children are listless—if they are not playing and romping with youthful vigor—look out! These are usually symptoms of Vitamin deficiency. The winter's diet of processed and canned foods has left their bodies low in Vitamins. Without Vitamins they cannot have energy or be robust. But it is easy to make them strong again. A diet rich in Vitamin B will almost at once produce a noticeable effect. Just add Vegex to their daily food. Vegex is richer in Vitamin B than any other food and it contains also the precious mineral salts and phosphates so necessary for nerve and gland functioning.

Try it at Once
Get a week's supply of Vegex from your grocer. Note the new energy and vigor of his children. Return the empty box to your grocer and he will refund you the cost of the Vegex. If he does not, write to the Vegex Company, 342 Washington Street, New York City.

MAY HAVE TO RESIGN

AS NEW LONDON OFFICIAL

Courland R. Darrow, New London's highway commissioner, is not yet decided as to what course of action he may decide upon when the question is determined whether he is legally entitled to continue his position as highway commissioner and as a resident of and tax collector of the town of Waterford.

The New London city charter states that the city manager cannot appoint any one to succeed him as resident of New London, but the fact is that the city manager never appointed Mr. Darrow. He was holding this position before the arrival of the city manager and no change has ever been made in the office. Whether he comes under this classification of "politician" which, according to Director of Law Hankey's verbal opinion would prevent his holding the office that ground, is more or less of a question.

WEDDING

Gauthier-Maynard.

Miss Hazel Maynard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Maynard of Fishers Island, and Thomas D. Gauthier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gauthier of Waterford, were united in marriage Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the rectory of St. Mary's church by Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor. The couple were accompanied by Miss Eva Gauthier and Edward Gauthier, sister and brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom, many guests being present. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Gauthier will reside at 42 Union street.

Mr. Gauthier is a World War veteran, having served with the 36th Division, and is now a member of Battery B this city. He is employed at the U. S. Fishery company.

Napoleon and Frederick the Great slept only three to four hours a day.

DAIRYMEN HEAR TALK

ON MARKET PROBLEMS

(Special to the Bulletin)

Storrs, Conn., Aug. 3.—The program for Farmers' Week today at the Connecticut Agricultural College was a varied one. It contained many demonstrations and lectures of interest to the various groups who have been at the college during the week.

The dairymen heard a talk on market problems of the eastern dairy farmers, by E. R. Eastman, editor of the Dairyman's League News, New York.

The situation and the Connecticut Dairy and Food Council Plan of Work, by C. E. Hough, manager of the Connecticut Milk Producers Association, and president of the Connecticut Dairy and Food Council, was the next speaker.

Two other talks were given on Factors of Profit on Successful Dairy Farms, by A. W. Manchester, professor of Farm Management, and F. C. Minkler, field agent of Chapman & Co., Chicago, Ill. The meeting closed with a calf feeding demonstration similar to those carried out earlier in the week.

The horticulture program for the day was also lengthy, beginning with a field demonstration and discussion of methods of control of insect and fungus troubles at the orchard. The demonstration was divided into five parts talked on as follows: Insect Problems, W. E. Britton, Entomologist, and George H. Lamson, Jr., professor of Zoology; Fungus Troubles, by G. A. Chittenden, professor of Plant Pathology; Control methods from instruction standpoint, S. P. Hollister, professor of Horticulture and A. T. Stevens, professor of Entomology; Gardening, From the Farmers' Standpoint, by E. E. Tucker, County Agricultural Agent, Tolland county and Roy C. Guley, Orchardist, Ellington; From Standpoint of Commercial Production, by R. H. Patch, and a general discussion of Control of Insect and Fungus troubles.

The people interested in Live Stock there was a sheep judging demonstration by R. E. Begg, sheep specialist, and talks on swine by John Buckler of Pittsfield, Mass. F. S. Chapman of Saybrook and L. W. Robinson of Columbia touched on the swine situation as seen in this state, while J. A. Sims gave general observations of the question. There was also a talk on judging demonstration by Mr. Buckler, talks on Fowls by R. H. Garris and on Beef cattle of Connecticut by A. W. Reynolds of Newton closed the program.

The poultry program was brief, there being a cage judging demonstration by R. E. Jones, and a talk on preparing fowl for the table by D. E. Warner.

The Women's program embraced several talks of great interest, and culminated in a talk on home equipment by Miss J. G. MacKinnon, instruction of home economics and on home emergencies by Miss L. MacDonell, State Home Demonstration agent.

Tomorrow in addition to the other meetings the Forestry program opens for a one day session. The events of the week will culminate in the evening with the annual sheep barbecue, held under the auspices of the Connecticut Dairymen's Association.

The attendance at the meetings held during the week has been good, and the talks have been of great interest this year than in the two past years.

Returns from Turkey

Admiral and Mrs. Colby M. Chester, the former a native of New London, have returned to New York from Turkey where Admiral Colby has large oil concessions.

Many many years ago the United States government to Turkey to collect damages for injury to United States interests, succeeded in getting a $1,000,000 concession in Asia Minor and agricultural properties.

Lieut. Peckham Home

Lieutenant Howard L. Peckham, corps of engineers, U. S. Army, has arrived from Washington, D. C. where he is on duty in the war department, to spend a short leave of absence at his home on Corning road.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Miss Elizabeth Selden is spending several days in New York.

Miss Ruby E. Vaughn of Warren street is at Oak Bluffs, Martha's Vineyard, for a fortnight.

Mr. Harry E. Higgins and family of Fairmount street are spending two weeks at Gardner Lake.

Mrs. Anthony Peck, of Philadelphia, formerly of Norwich, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. William W. Leonard, of Julian street.

Judge Allyn L. Brown, who has been in town during the week, will return on Saturday to join his family at Kennebunk Beach, Maine.

The Misses Russell, of Brooklyn, N. Y., for many seasons cottagers at Eastern Point, were callers on Norwich residents this week, returning from a trip to the Catskills.

Miss Annie L. Ruggles, of Broad street, was a passenger on steamer President Polk, of the United States line, from Cherbourg, France, miss aboard the ship, spending seven months in Spain and two in France. Miss Ruggles went to Spain to visit her cousin, Consul Keith Morrill, at the American consulate in Madrid. Later she toured that country.

OBJECT TO ERECTION OF STORE

NEAR MCKINLEY AVENUE

Property owners on upper McKinley avenue and on Broad street have been aroused over the proposed construction of a small building with a store on the ground level at the corner of McKinley avenue and Broad street. For years that section of the city has been purely residential and the property owners feel that it should continue so.

Sometimes ago Barnett and Yetta Cohen, Mr. Greenleaf's daughter, former Keebler lot at the corner of Broad street and McKinley avenue with the idea of erecting a store there. When it became known that the new owners intended to construct a store on the lot, the property owners of the lot intended to erect the store building right on the corner, at the junction of the two streets and even with the sidewalk line on both sides.

One of the interested property owners pointed out Thursday evening that if the building is so constructed it will be of line with the other buildings on the street which will back several feet from the sidewalk line.

The property owners have talked the matter over among themselves and now there is being circulated a petition asking the court of common council to establish a permanent building line for upper McKinley avenue and that part of Broad street which joins McKinley avenue. It is understood that there are already some 40 to 50 signatures on the petition which will probably be presented to the common council at its next meeting.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH BACH

Over seventy-five friends of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bach gathered at the home of Mrs. T. J. O'Neill of River avenue

Thursday evening, the occasion being a farewell party in honor of Mr. and Mrs.

Bach, who are soon to leave for New York where Mr. Bach is to enter a glass manufacturing business for himself.

The lawn was tastefully decorated with Japanese lanterns and a long refreshment table was set beneath the trees in the yard. During the evening the guests were entertained by a variety of musical numbers, which were given by Miss Sadie Driscoll and Mrs. Morgan

Cronin, with vocal selections and musical piano numbers. Music was also furnished by the Victrola.

Light refreshments were served. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing games.

During the evening Mr. Bach was delightfully surprised upon receiving gifts from his friends. The presentation speech was delivered by Mr. May, pastor of St. Paul's church, who said that Mr. and Mrs. Bach would be missed greatly by their many friends, who wished them success in their future under-taking.

The committee in charge of the lawn party comprised Mrs. T. J. O'Neill, Mrs.

John J. Shugrue and Mrs. Raymond

Whitaker.

Mr. Bach is to leave soon for Brooklyn, N. Y., to open his factory, which will make glass and crystal ware.

Mr. Bach has had much experience in the glass business, having been connected with the American Thermos Bottle company for years as a glass blower, and six years in New York.

Upon leaving for Brooklyn Mr. Bach will be accompanied by his wife and son, Nicholas Bach.

"DRY" OFFICERS FIND

STILL COIL AND MASH

Three raids conducted Thursday by

Prohibition Agents Church,

Flintpatrick and Congdon netted a 20-gallon still, a coil, 60 gallons of mash, 100 feet thick and a bottle of cordial.

The officers visited a house at Yantic occupied by Kostantoff Profit and discovered a 20-gallon still, a coil and 20 gallons of mash. The officers destroyed the mash but took possession of the still and coil. Profit was ordered to appear before U. S. Commissioner Earl Matheson, Friday.

At the residence of Joseph Sachs, No.

27 Greene avenue, the officers found five quarts of moonshine and a bottle of cordial in a closet. Mr. Sachs was ordered to appear before Commissioner

Matheson Monday.

The officers also visited the home of John Kubat on Yantic street.

The mash was destroyed.

NORWICH TOWN PEAT MAY HELP

SOLVE LOCAL FUEL PROBLEM

Norwich manufacturers and householders may be able to partly solve the fuel problem with coal mined in this state, and with peat cut from peat bogs in this vicinity. It is not generally known that there are peat bogs in Norwich and vicinity. One of the peat bogs is located near Elington, Coventry, and Columbia.

There are also one or two small veins of coal in this state which have been prepared by paleontologists from Yale who have been searching for mammalian fossils. These veins, which are only a few feet in thickness, have never been worked commercially. Peat, which is found at numerous places in the state, also has great value and during the Civil war when peat was prohibited from being an important Connecticut product, and many tons of it were shipped to New York and Boston.

There are peat bogs in Rockville, El-ington, Coventry, Middlebury, and Norwich, and during the war these bogs were surveyed with the idea of the possible use of peat as a fuel then. The station on the peat supply in Connecticut is included in the data compiled by the fuel administration in 1918, and has been requested from Washington for use to the emergency fuel commission to super-visit the state of the mines.

Connecticut has a few outliers of the coal formations of the Alleghenies and there are other rock formations in the state which are coal bearing, for not all of the coal deposits are found in the rocks of the carboniferous period, but great veins of massive sandstone, usually considered as the coal forming area, found in rock formation which are older or younger than the carboniferous. Roughly
